"For many years I have been an admirer of the Mason & Hamlin Piano, and it is with genuine pleasure that I express my appreciation of the New Mason and Hamlin BB recently purchased by the Riverside Church for the use in my Choir Room and Study."

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "H. V. Milligan".

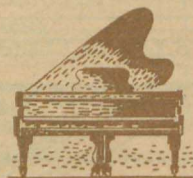

Nov. 15, 1932

Into each Mason & Hamlin is built that which is beyond the measurement of money. Fashioned almost entirely by hand—slowly, carefully, a few each year—it is made great at a workman's bench, and not by the lips of an eloquent spokesman. That is why tonal authorities have proclaimed it, "Musically the most beautiful piano the world has ever known".

"I CONSIDER the Steinway piano absolutely unique in that it combines the production of sound, from the softest pianissimo to the greatest forte, with an extraordinary perfection of action. The Steinway seems to defy the laws of acoustics and allows the daintiest runs in a Chopin nocturne to be immediately followed by a thunderous forte in a Tannhauser overture-transcription. Therefore, as long as I have the privilege to play on a Steinway, I am completely satisfied."

JOSEF HOFMANN

● When the ladies wrested the steering wheel of the family automobile from masculine grasp, we are frequently reminded, motor car manufacturers centered their attention on making cars easier to drive and salesmen began pointing out the beautiful upholstery and cigarette lighters instead of engine superiority. Looking at some of the early cars in the New York Museum of Science and Industry, 220 East 42nd Street—the Duryea of 1898, the Locomobile of 1899, the Oldsmobile of 1902—one can see that motoring was in those days an adventurous, he-man's sport. With the coming of the electric car (there is a Waverly of 1907 in the Museum) women began to drive, and to make automobile history.

● The highway transportation section of the Museum tells the story of motor development from Cugnot's steam wagon of Napoleon's time to the present. And in case floating power is a mystery to you, don't fail to see the little apparatus that explains it almost at a glance.
